Moderators

Stalon moderators are produced using only the finest precision engineering. They have a simple company philosophy, to produce the best possible sound moderators for hunting. Every component from the outer tube to the integral baffles are tested to perform at the highest level. The three main criteria for a moderator are low weight, maximum sound attenuation and minimal additional length to the barrel. JaktJournal, Sweden's premier hunting magazine, rated Stalon the best performer amongst its peers.

GMK are pleased to offer 3 models tailored to the user requirements.

Established in 1937, Cervellati specialises in producing quality rubber products and invests in both technology and research and design to meet the demands of the shooting market. Known for their flexibility, Cervellati's MicroCell recoil pads are produced in an expanded technopolymer, offering the advantages of being flexible, up to 60% lighter than rubber or gel pads and absorbing a higher rate of recoil, while providing minimal deformation during the shot or "bottom out" effect over time.
